A limited number of tuition camperships are available for children with diabetes in need of financial help. We are unable to offer camperships for siblings without diabetes.

WHAT IS CAMP INDEPENDENCE?

During the 20th century, summer camps have become an American institution. Children with diabetes mellitus were often excluded from summer camps because of their special health requirements. Overnight camps specifically for children with diabetes were established, including several in the state of Texas. While these camps continue to provide the valuable experience to many children with diabetes, they are limited in the number of campers. Camp Independence of San Antonio was established in 1987 to broaden the camping experience to children who were ineligible to attend overnight camps and to children whose parents were reluctant to send their children to residential camps.

Camp Independence provides a camping opportunity for children who have diabetes emphasizing that the children are able to participate in all camp activities and have fun. That the children also have diabetes is not an overriding issue, but rather an important added factor. To deal with this added factor, the camp will have a specially trained staff.

Specific goals of the camp include:

- 1.) To provide an enjoyable camping experience for children with diabetes.
- 2.) To provide a safe and healthy environment away from home.
- 3.) To enable children with diabetes to meet and get to know one another
- 4.) To help children, their brothers, sisters and parents learn more about their disease, how to adjust to it, and how to manage it.
- 5.) To provide a respite for parents.
- 6.) To help the children understand the elements of a medical program, which will approximate normal blood sugar levels, while avoiding severe hypoglycemia.
- 7.) To help children achieve independence and self-discipline in their approach to life with diabetes.
- 8.) To provide an opportunity for health professionals to acquire more knowledge about diabetes and practice their skills.
- 9.) To provide a leadership opportunity for high school students with diabetes.
